O'BRIEN HELD

Without Bail Charged with the Murder of Beatrice Walter, His Friend.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 3.—James O'Brien, a one-armed factory worker, was formally charged Friday with the murder of Miss Beatrice Walter, his nineteen-year-old friend. He pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for a hearing June 15. O'Brien has insisted that the girl whose body was found in a vacant lot near her home, shot herself accidentally. Police said his story indicated that there had been a joint suicide agreement but that they had been unable to corroborate it.

The stilted plover is so named because of its long, stiltlike legs. Only one species is found in England.

OGDEN'S OPEN LETTER TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS

To the Republican Voters of Harrison County:

It has been my intention to write a personal letter to each Republican voter in Harrison county prior to the Primary Election, but not having a campaign manager or office force to assist me in any way, I find it impossible to do so. Realizing the short time in which to make a canvass I have felt that calling personally on those whom I could would be more satisfactory. In addition to this certain reports have become current concerning my candidacy for the Republican nomination for sheriff. I therefore take this method of reaching the voters and dispelling any doubts that may have arisen in the mind of any voter by reason of these rumors.

In making reply to such reports I want to say that the rumor of my receiving the support of any faction or interest is entirely without foundation, and I ask your very closest investigation as to this matter. All the support that I am receiving for this nomination has come to me through my personal friends who have taken an active interest in my candidacy, and have generously volunteered their services and support in my behalf. And to these many friends I desire to avail myself of this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for their free and unselfish efforts in promoting my candidacy.

It is also rumored that I have promised many persons deputyships if nominated and elected. I have made no offer of any kind to any person or number of persons concerning appointments in the event of my nomination and election. If I am the honored candidate at the primary and elected to the office of sheriff of Harrison county, I shall be free to make my own selections and will do so at that time, endeavoring to get the most capable and efficient men for the work.

Why these reports have been circulated I do not know. I trust, however, the Republican voters have sufficient confidence in me not to be deceived by such reports, and I am willing to let the matter rest with them. The assurance that is being given me from every part of the county causes me to feel confident of the outcome on Tuesday next. I urge that the voters will remember I am in the race to win and to do so honestly and fairly, and to this end I will greatly appreciate the support and influence of all members of the party.

Sincerely yours,

L. WAYMAN OGDEN.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 2, 1916.

PENROSE

Arrives on the Scene Along with Other Leaders and Does Some Talking.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Republican leaders from all parts of the country are arriving in Chicago on every train and the crowds of politicians in hotel lobbies are increasing proportionately as the time for the Republican national convention approaches. Senator Boise Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who arrived Friday, said: "Three-quarters of the seventy-six delegates from Pennsylvania are uncommitted. We are going to do what in our judgment is best for the interests of the Republican party at this time. We have no preference at this stage of the procedure. The claim made by friends of Governor Brumbaugh that they will have half of the Pennsylvania delegation is untrue."

Henry G. Wason, national committeeman from Pennsylvania, and one of the leaders of the Brumbaugh faction, today expressed the opinion that Roosevelt is second choice of about sixty of the seventy-six delegates from this state. He claims forty-one votes for Governor Brumbaugh on the first ballot.

CAPTURE

Of a Wood in the Verdun Fighting by German Forces is Announced.

BERLIN, June 3.—The capture of Callette wood, south of Fort Douaumont, in the Verdun front and of adjoining trenches was announced Friday by the war office.

A counter attack by the French southwest of Vaux wood was a failure although made in strong force. The capture of seventy-six officers, 2,000 men, three guns and more than a score of machine guns is reported.

EMPEROR ON TOUR

BERLIN, June 3.—Emperor William is on tour of the eastern front. It was officially announced Friday. The statement says: "The emperor has left the army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg in order to visit other army groups on the eastern front. He arrived on May 31 at the army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria."

SYLLABUS OF LIQUOR RULING OF HIGH COURT

Reasons Are Set Forth Why the Famous Injunction is Not Lawful.

The syllabus of the opinion of the state supreme court holding that labeled liquor is lawful baggage, which was written by Judge Poffenberger, is as follows:

"1. Chapter 13, acts, 1913, as amended by chapter 7, acts, 1915, chapter 32A, Code, Barnes's Handy Edition, does not expressly or impliedly prohibit common carriers from transportation of passengers carrying with them, in their own personal custody, care and control, packages of intoxicating liquors, labeled in accordance with the requirement of section 31 of said chapter.

"2. Section seven of said chapter impliedly authorizes such transportation, by the use of terms from which legislative intent to do so is plainly inferable, and section 31 thereof expressly recognizing the common law right of a citizen to bring intoxicating liquors into the state, for his personal use, and prescribing the manner of doing so, without denying to him the use of any of the means of travel ordinarily available and employed, at the date of the passage of the act, impliedly authorizes the use of such methods of travel in the carriage of such liquors.

"3. An express statutory grant of a right, power or privilege, or exception of a previous existing one, in the absence of any prescription of the method of exercise or enjoyment thereof, impliedly carries with it right to make use of all the ordinary methods and means of such exercise or enjoyment.

"4. A bill praying an injunction against transportation of all persons so carrying intoxicating liquors, by a common carrier, on the ground that some of them make unlawful use of liquors so brought into the state by them, and not charging the rendition of aid and assistance of any particular person in his violations of the prohibition laws, by the common carrier proceeded against, raises no question as to right in the state to enjoin such transportation as to particular individuals.

"5. In the absence of a statute conferring it, equity has no jurisdiction to abate a public nuisance, either civil or criminal, at the instance of an individual or the state, not affecting or injuring the enjoyment of property or other personal rights. Injunction is not a remedy for the enforcement of criminal laws generally.

"6. Under the authority to abate nuisances, conferred by section 14 and section 17, chapter 32A, Barnes's Code, the injunction goes primarily against places in which the prohibition laws are habitually violated and incidentally against persons who maintain such places. Such authority does not extend to violations of the prohibition laws generally or in ways other than those designated in said sections. Neither said sections nor any other law confers upon courts of equity, general power to govern the state by injunction, insofar as its laws pertain to the subject of intoxicating liquors.

"7. In those instances in which injunction lies to prevent conduct amounting to a nuisance abatable by such remedy, it is limited to unlawful acts and is not available as a means of prevention of lawful acts. Only so much of such conduct as is unlawful can be restrained."

The decree of the Mineral county circuit court against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company was reversed, the demurrer of the defendant to the bill sustained, and the cause was remanded with leave to amend the bill.

In closing the opinion in the case, the court sets forth that "as the acts alleged in the bill are not contrary to the laws of this state, it is wholly unnecessary to discuss the Webb-Kenyon law. It certainly adds nothing to the statute of any state. Nor is it necessary to attempt to define the rights of the defendant as an interstate carrier, respecting, intoxicating liquors. It is not complaining of the statute as it is here construed."
